Comments: As residents living in the middle of and totally appreciating and revering the Tongass National Forest along with depending on it for subsistence harvests; as commercial fishermen whose livelihoods depend on clean waters and healthy forests; as one who works for a small-boat cruise ship company which brings people to the area who are in total awe of the Tongass and all it has to offer: my husband and I are submitting comments and urge you to keep Tongass under the Roadless Rule by adopting Alternative 1.

Opening the Tongass up for more roads to accommodate logging is simply not reasonable for many reasons that have been presented to you by others submitting comments.

The Tongass is an old growth treasure, the largest last remaining temperate rain forest in the United States. Please listen to those who live here, those who visit and your own USFS Ranger districts and and protect the Tongass from devastation by adopting Alternative 1.

Thank you for taking our comments.
