Comments: We say "NO" to more logging in the Tongass

A few weeks ago, we were on a catamaran cruising the Great Bear Rainforest in British Columbia. What a beautiful place, and how wise of the Canadians to protect it, preserving both the beauty and the important ecological function of these last temperate rainforests.

We have our own similar reserve, the Tongass, but it's under attack.

The Trump administration must not lift protections on 9.2 million acres of the pristine Tongass National Forest and allow roads and destructive commercial logging. This is wrong.

I strongly urge the Forest Service to select Alternative 1, the "no-action" alternative.

Thank you,

Pam Wilder
