Comments: Keep 'Roadless Rule' Protections for the Tongass National Forest

Dear U.S. Forest Service,

I am firmly opposed to the President's plan to eliminate "Roadless Rule" protections for the Tongass National Forest and urge the Forest Service to keep these protections solidly in place--choosing the "no action" alternative.

Opening this forest to clearcutting and bulldozing will effectively destroy it as a wilderness, all for the sake of greed.

For the same reason, I oppose any plan to open any of the 5 million acres of roadless areas on the Chugach National Forest to bulldozing and clearcutting for logging.

Please keep these fabulous areas fabulous.

Sincerely,

David J. Worthington
