Comments: Limited entry permits

This comment isn't about the fees, but about the structure of the permits. The way the pamelia permits are set up doesn't make much sense to me. A small group is considered 1 to 8 people. To me, 1 or 2 people is very different than 8 people. I believe the obsidian permits are based on the actual number of people. My hope is that the new permits would be set up that way, giving people like myself, who only hike in very small groups, a better chance at being able to obtain a permit. It seems to me that would be a more accurate way to keep the number of people at the levels you are trying to achieve.

Thank you very much.
