Comments: proposed wilderness fees

I first hiked to Obsidian Falls in 1969 before we had quota's and fees, so it's hard for me to wrap my head around them. But they are here to stay, and I am still healthy enough to enjoy our wilderness area's, so I better adjust to them.

My only comment about the proposed fees has to do with the nightly fee for multi-day hikes. That doesn't seem right or fair to me. Backpacking should not become an expensive sport. I've hiked sections of the John Muir Trail and they don't charge by the night.

Please keep it affordable.
