Data Submitted (UTC 11): 11/8/2019 4:59:09 AM
First name: HELENE
Last name: MUSSUTO
Organization:
Title:
Comments: Public Comment on Special Recreation Permit Fee

I went to the presentation in Sisters Monday night. There was a large crowd, but seemed mostly to be folks in their 50+. Kudos to everyone. The presentation was well done and the enlarged Day/Overnight maps were easy to read and understand.

A few thoughts:
I know it's everyone's responsibility to read and know before you go, but it's obvious from the trash, social trails and issues with human/dog waste, people aren't doing their due diligence. Could the forest service use bright colors for trailhead signs (neon green - bright orange) and use bullet statements to highlight key points and include the fine is for littering (toilet paper, apple core, orange peel, nut shells, moving rocks, etc). The bright colors and simple words might get folks to read before hitting the trail.

Thanks
Helene