Comments: Recreation.Gov processing fees for Central Oregon trailheads are outrageous

This is all about channeling money to the for profit Recreation.gov, isn't it? If it wasn't, then we would be able to purchase a permit at the trailhead and not pay any additional "processing" fee. I'm starting to think that the FS gets some kind of kickback from recreation.gov.

All these highly regressive fees add up to make the outdoors unaffordable for people on a budget.

And how about the FS enforcing some of the rules already on the books, like the dogs on leash rule in wilderness areas. I'll make a deal with you. When the FS enforces the dogs on leash rule, I will pay for a daily permit.
