I support the change. I have noticed large crowds and habitat degradation over the last few years. The proposed prices seem to be reasonable.

However, I would ensure there is a way for those who buy permits in advance to re-sell them (at face value). Mt. St. Helens has a website dedicated to folks who can't make the trip and wish to sell their permits. This way we can maximize the limited access there is.

Bottom line: so long as there is a healthy number of reservations, and "day of" permits available, I'll be happy.
