Comments: Permit system

I can only speak to my own experiences with permits for hikes, but they have not been good. The past two years I have attempted to get a permit for mt st helens only to have the website crash. By the time i could get online there were no more permits available.

Buying aftermarket permits worked but was a significant hassle.

Is there a way to have a substantial number of "day of" permits available ?

While I understand the need for change in order to preserve our natural wonders, selfishly I am concerned that I wont be able to get access unless I book several years in advance, if the computer system allows at all.

A concerned nature lover.
