Comments: I object.

I object to raising any prices on any permits, day use, or multi day. I understand completely the need for maintenance. But this is very excessive. I value our green state, it's that very color and experience that brings me solace. As someone who is in their late 20s, it's hard enough as it is to afford living let alone even the current price of day use permits. Being able to reconnect to nature is the very essence of what brings peace to my mind. All mentioned above, I also want to add, this is the land of the free, and putting a price on experiencing that very freedom, is beyond infuriating as it is.

I pay too much damn taxes as it is to raise the price of something that should be basically free.
