Dear Willamette National Forest,

I am writing with regard to the proposed recreation restrictions within the Deschutes and Willamette National Forests' Wilderness areas. I feel that the new quota-based fee structure would unnecessarily restrict climbing access and create issues for low-income communities.

The Forest Service has numerous other less restrictive management tools at their disposal, none of which have yet been tried or otherwise implemented. I strongly encourage the Forest Service to partner with other stakeholders to find a better path forward.

Sincerely,

Marc Dumas, MD
