Comments: To Whom It May Concern:

I am not a tent or camper person; however, I love to be in the forest for more than one day at a time. I've been fortunate to stay in cabins on Mt. Graham, which is a perfect solution to someone like me. I get to spend the night in the forest without sleeping in a tent or camper. The Bible Camp would provide this opportunity to many others who might have similar feelings.

I see the Bible Camp as a location where many people can get together and enjoy nature while strengthening relationships and creating memories with each other. It would provide a place where groups and organizations can come for retreats or activities. Being able to escape into the pine trees for many of us that live in the desert climate and in cities gives us a fresh breath of air, literally.

I've never understood why the Forest Service seems to shut down forest use more than it serves the public by letting us use the forests. Please allow the Bible Camp to stay and be usable for the public.
