

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 12/6/2019 8:54:19 PM

First name: Erin

Last name: Fitz

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Maintaining our forests is more than ever important as we are dealing with increasing extreme weatherevents. Forests are resilient systems that have countless benefits to humans and nonhumans alike. Forests clean our air and water, reduce mental and physical strees, prevent erosion, regulate nutrients, provide shelter and opportunities for recreation and livelihood. Logging this forest will at least emporarily destroy all of these benefits and may have much larger consequences in years to come.