Comments: As a citizen, I urge the US Forest Service to reverse course in attempting to exempt the Tongass from the Roadless Rule. Do not let Timber companies overrule the will of the local Southeast Alaska citizens and those of us in the broader PNW (including Seattle where I live) who cherish the rare wild beauty of this unique ecosystem. Short sighted timber policies of the past have marred this habitat for centuries to come. Please don't repeat these mistakes and protect our natural US wildlife heritage for ourselves and future generations. I would also ask that you show much more respect for the indigenous tribal people and their input on this important issue. Thank you.
