Comments: Tongas forest

Im writing to you today in regards of the exemption of the Tongas Forest from the Roadless Rule proposed by Donald Trump. I would like to express my support for the first alternative option, which is to keep the Tongas Forest under the protection of the Roadless Rule. I'm in support of this for several reasons. One reason is that, cutting down trees both adds carbon dioxide to the air and removes the ability to absorb already existing carbon dioxide. Another reason is deforestation changes the landscape and reflectivity of earth's surface therefore decreasing albedo, which will cause the effect of greenhouse gasses to increase dramatically. This in return will be detrimental to the future of mankind's only home.

- sincerely,

a very concerned citizen
