Comments: three sisters permitting

Having grown up spending many summers hiking and climbing in the Three Sisters and Jefferson areas, I think it's imperative that access be maintained. Limiting access to only those with available funds is counter to the purpose of public lands.

I cannot imagine that the majority of the monies collected won't be used up administering the program. How about finding a more efficient funding solution so that individuals and especially families are incented to leave electronics behind and go into the wilderness instead of being punished financially for those inclinations.
