

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 11/27/2019 5:13:54 AM

First name: Jeremy

Last name: Jahr

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Limited access fees

Hello,

I completely understand the desire and need to limit access in order to minimize the negative impact that crowds have on the land.

My issue is with the fee.

If it is possible to have the system needed in order to limit access and be able to effectively "close the door" and be able to say "sorry, no more, full for today." This would achieve what is publicly being given as the reason for this new fee. Once this system is in place, then charging a fee would not be necessary.

I understand the fee may very well be necessary to put such a system in place, but it is not much of a stretch to see this as someone trying to open up a new revenue stream.

I would be much more open to charging more for the annual northwest forest pass and day passes. This would provide more funds, lower the amount of visitors due to the higher cost upfront, while still giving those that enjoy the mountains the freedom to go when they want.

Thank you for your time,
Jeremy Jahr
Redmond, OR.

Sent from Yahoo Mail on Android