Comments: The Forest Service is proposing to hand over your forests to a fracked gas export company in order to facilitate pipeline construction across public lands. One of the necessary approvals for the Jordan Cove LNG Pipeline is to exempt the project from Forest Service land use plans for the sections of the pipeline crossing National Forests. Because the forest removal and pipeline construction violate so many provisions of the Forest Service's management plan, they are proposing to throw out the rulebook to expedite fossil fuel export through these public lands.

Boooo! Reverse this! Do your job- Protect our lands,waters,wildlife, health & future! Your attention to his most urgent matter would be much appreciated by all present & future generations of all species.

Thank you
