Comments: Please Keep 'Roadless Rule' in Tongass National Forest

Dear U.S. Forest Service,

Please do not allow the Forest Service eliminate "Roadless Rule" protections for the Tongass National Forest and urge you to select the "no action" alternative instead. Your proposal to open the door to clearcutting and bulldozing is theft of a national treasure. The Tongass belongs to all Americans and shouldn't be sacrificed to the timber industry, which provides a small fraction of the jobs and income in Southeast Alaska compared to tourism and fishing - both of which rely on intact forests to thrive.

Further, I oppose your plan to allow the agency to open any of the 5 million acres of roadless areas on the Chugach National Forest to bulldozing and clearcutting for logging. This is simply a backdoor repeal of the 2001 Roadless Rule, which protects all roadless lands because of the critical role they play in protecting pure water, secure wildlife habitat and remote recreation.

Please - think of future generations by selecting the "no action" alternative to maintain "Roadless Rule" protections for the Tongass and Chugach.

Sincerely,

Linda Kade
