Comments: To Whom It Concerns: I am in favor of allowing responsible road building in the Tongass National Forest. I was born and raised in Southeast Alaska and appreciate the Tongass for providing many opportunities for our citizens. One of these opportunities should be responsible development of the forest's natural resources. There are many people who rely on the Tongass to sustain their livelihoods, from fisherman to loggers to hunters to tour operators, among many others. To deny specific groups access to their livelihood is not fair and counterproductive to the health of Southeast Alaska.
