Comments: I write to express my dismay that the USDA is considering the destruction of the Tongass National Forest trees by allowing logging. My son lives on Baranoff Island where nature is pristine and should be protected, before it is lost forever. Eliminating trees through logging only serves to enrich the pockets of companies who do NOT care about the environment, nature, or the people who thrive on Baranoff Island. Money should never be a motivating factor in the destruction of mature trees that provide habitats for nature and a lifestyle for thousands of residents.

The Tongass Roadless Rule must stay in place to protect that which will be LOST FOREVER if logged. We only get one chance to protect our environment.
