

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 12/17/2019 9:00:00 AM

First name: John

Last name: Hartle

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Leave the roadless rule in place; chose the no-action alternative. I have lived in the Tongass National Forest for 37 years, and I have recreated throughout Southeast Alaska. There are logging roads; more are not needed. It is critically important to conserve the Tongass National Forest's ability to convert carbon dioxide to oxygen. Global warming is real, and reaching a crisis point. The billions of trees in the Tongass are needed at this time.

[Position]

[Position]