Data Submitted (UTC 11): 12/16/2019 9:00:00 AM
First name: Kelsi
Last name: Nagy
Organization: Colorado State University
Title:
Comments: I am strongly opposed to roads and industry in the National Forest System Lands in Alaska. This forest system is vital to wildlife, regulation of climate and water cycle, and the sequestration of carbon. One study states that 90% of virgin forests have been cleared in the United States. It is vital we protect the remaining forests that are left, especially with pressure to other forests elsewhere in the world. If roads are build, industry follows. Please protect this vital habitat and keep the National Forest System Lands in Alaska roadless.

[Position]

[Position]