U.S. Forest Service Alaska Roadless Rule Committee:

Not just for us, but let's save some roadless areas and all the natural amenities that come with them for future generations. Included will be the fish, ocean, and other benefits that benefit local areas and us in the lower states economically and other ways.

The Roadless Rule has been instrumental in conserving the Tongass National Forest and in supporting its fish and wildlife-based industries for almost 20 years. Please uphold the Rule's protections for important fish and wildlife areas, including the Tongass 77. Roadless areas are an important source of food, jobs, and income through commercial, subsistence, and recreational fishing. Salmon are part of Alaska's culture and we must protect them and their spawning streams. Please do not roll back roadless area protections for habitat that our irreplaceable fish and wildlife populations need to survive.

Sincerely,

Marshal Moser
