Comments: The chattahoochee national forest and surrounding areas are a vast collection of hikers, campers, observers, and athletes. The state of georgia needs to retain all of its forests so that we the people of georgia can show how beautiful the natural state of georgia is in person. Theres enough buildings, roads, houses, and wood to be accounted for in this state at this time. The forest is not a bank, and it has much more to offer the state of georgia, it's people, and its visitors with the lush wildlife and vivid colors of it's own beauty. Please do not take that away.
