Comments: Logging the way the Forest Service is planning to do it isn't conducive to the economy of any of the counties that make up the foothills project. While a few logging companies will profit, Real Estate values will suffer, along with losing tourist dollars. Who wants to spend time in or near a waste land of stumps and bent traumatized young trees with erosion dirty streams and waterfalls? With Climate change happening so fast, why the hurry to cut more trees without a more through study of what this might mean to the forest in general?
