U.S. Forest Service Alaska Roadless Rule Committee:

Would you build an interstate through Yellowstone National Park, or even a highway through Central Park in New York City? Of course not. Some beautiful places which serve as important habitats to species other than humans must be preserved. Once gone, they never return. Please maintain the Roadless Rule.

The Roadless Rule has been instrumental in conserving the Chugach and Tongass National Forest and in supporting their associated fish and wildlife-based industries for more than 20 years. Please uphold the Rule's protections for important fish and wildlife areas, including the Tongass 77, by selecting the 'no action' alternative. Roadless areas are an important source of food, jobs, and income through commercial, subsistence, and recreational fishing. Salmon are part of Alaska's culture and we must protect them and their spawning streams. Please do not roll back roadless area protections for habitat that our irreplaceable fish and wildlife populations need to survive.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Kassman
