U.S. Forest Service Alaska Roadless Rule Committee:

As an interested person who spent many summers in Alaska, I am very upset by the sneaky and corrupt decisions made about many areas of Alaska that should not be ruined for greed. Once these areas are destroyed they cannot go back to the original beauty they once held. What are you thinking? Does no one care about the destruction of areas which hold the keys to wildlife sanctuaries? I am appalled at the lack of oversight to protect these beautiful lands and streams. Please stop this!

The Roadless Rule has been instrumental in conserving the Tongass National Forest and in supporting its fish and wildlife-based industries for almost 20 years. Please uphold the Rule's protections for important fish and wildlife areas, including the Tongass 77. Roadless areas are an important source of food, jobs, and income through commercial, subsistence, and recreational fishing. Salmon are part of Alaska's culture and we must protect them and their spawning streams. Please do not roll back roadless area protections for habitat that our irreplaceable fish and wildlife populations need to survive.

Sincerely,

Janet Jendzel
