U.S. Forest Service Alaska Roadless Rule Committee:

As ocean and air temperatures rise, ocean, and stream food sources and habitat will come under threat. Thus, the iconic trout and salmon coastal fisheries will be under great pressure to survive, and so we need absolutely pristine wilderness to ensure their survival and renewal for future generations to come, and be enjoyed by fishermen. Please save these amazing fish, they need your support!

The Roadless Rule has been instrumental in conserving the Tongass National Forest and in supporting its fish and wildlife-based industries for almost 20 years. Please uphold the Rule's protections for important fish and wildlife areas, including the Tongass 77. Roadless areas are an important source of food, jobs, and income through commercial, subsistence, and recreational fishing. Salmon are part of Alaska's culture and we must protect them and their spawning streams. Please do not roll back roadless area protections for habitat that our irreplaceable fish and wildlife populations need to survive.

Sincerely,

Steve Keve
