

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/2/2020 7:32:09 PM

First name: Matt

Last name: Sprague

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Wilderness access permits.

If you follow through and making us pay more for public access to wilderness to limit impacts, the smarter approach is to limit it to specific high use trailheads. I should be rewarded for using low use areas. You definitely need to exempt certain activities such as hunting. Overall hunting generally has a small footprint during a limited time of year. Hunters have already paid for a license and relevant tags so expecting even more starts to feel like our recreational type is overly subjected to fees and more regulation. Where does it end is my point.

Thanks,

Matt Sprague

Sent from my Sprint Samsung Galaxy S10&#43;.