Comments: Fees for permits

Please note I support completely the fee level proposed. When you think of what people spend their money on daily without thinking (coffee, sodas, pastries, etc.) even if they have small incomes, the fees you propose are very small. Camping and hiking in the wilderness may be a right for all, but it must be done with respect and the maintenance of trails, signage and campsites is expensive. Since the government has cut back a lot for national parks, forests and wilderness areas, and people don't like paying taxes, usage fees are definitely the way to go.

You need to present it clearly in terms of who is paying and where money comes from.
