

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/4/2020 3:09:10 PM

First name: Chris

Last name: Miller

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Folks, we have healthier choices than you want to use. Your choices are probably cheaper and quicker, but, they are not the healthiest ones for our forests, the plants, birds, other wildlife, humans, our air or water.

We can not burn or spray toxic chemicals or cut our way to a healthier forest or planet. Once we damage our air, by cutting the only thing on this planet that gives us air and helps to cool our planet.

Or, spray herbicides randomly in areas that are in our aquifer forest recharge areas, we are as Albert Einstein said, "As a species, we are rapidly sawing off the limbs on which we are perched".

When we take the easy way with any thing in life that we do, we short change ourselves and our planet. Unless, any of you know how we survive on this planet or know of some other planet we can live on when we make this one uninhabitable, I would make your choices wisely.