Comments: I am writing because I am opposed to all four of the Forest Service proposed amendments.

All of these amendments would increase the killing of prairie dogs.

It is disturbing to me that "ranchers" who lease public lands to graze their private livestock get so many of their wishes granted and it always seems to be at the detriment of wildlife.

It isn't right, and it isn't fair, and it isn't moral. The black tailed prairie dog is a keystone species, without them the grassland ecosystems collapse. There has to be someplace left for wild animals that livestock doesn't get to graze. Public lands do not belong to "ranchers" and I for one am tired of them mooching public land for grazing livestock.

Stop writing off our wildlife in the name of greedy "ranchers". The Forest Service has no business killing or preventing prairie dogs from accessing their native habitats, on or off national grasslands.
