Comments: Re: Valle Seco info

Hi Becca, I am just now having a chance (TheHolidays) to look over this land exchange info you kindly sent me.

It's hard to tell from the tiny top sections where exactly the first 3 parcels are located - I am concerned about the West and East sections of the SanJuan being removed from public access and being given to KelcyWarren, who is already positively 'loaded' with beautiful private SanJuan river access and land surrounding it. If public comment period is still allowed; I believe you said it was extended because of the holiday season-perhaps a link to larger map could be sent and additionally available to the general public via TheSUN online(?) or the USFS website-I can't seem to access a 'better picture' of proposal give-away.

Even if too late for comment, I would like to see what the public is 'losing' to another wealthy landowner/1%-er.

Thanks for your help,

Addi
