Comments: There are numerous things I disapprove of and I imagine that most people would disapprove of as well. These include:

1. The lack of a time limit on the project
2. The lack of specific location(s) for the project to take place (with the proposition that this will be decided on after public comment is closed)
3. The scope of the project encompassing a 157,000 acres (this is MASSIVE and again can be spread out however the Forest Service decides)
4. The lack of public input or greater good of the public down the road considered (various things about this proposal (ie, when it was proposed, how future parts of the project will occur without public input) is extraordinarily troubling). It seems likely that the Forest Service is actively trying to subvert public input. Regardless of how you think the land should be used the public deserve a seat at the table.)

In conclusion I do not approve of me or others being silenced for multiple future decades. Public interest is paramount.
