Comments: This project seems to span an incredibly long period of time without allowing continuing discourse with the public. It appears to be taking quite a bit of area and there is no information on how the destruction of public lands will be rejuvenated. Will the trees taken be replaced with seedlings? Will logging roads be restored to nature? Will the next two generations be able to use any of the campgrounds, rivers, or land in the proposed project area.

The more the area is logged, the more likely wildfires can break out. Without input, information, or a restoration plan, this seems like a poorly planned project.
