Comments: Hello Forest Service,

I am a Georgia high school student who loves the outdoors and all the treasures to be found there especially in Georgia and even more so in the beautiful Georgia mountains. I am deeply concerned with lack of public input in developing the Foothills Landscape Project and how and where its projects will be applied. My first concern is for the ecology and nature of this region, these mountains are already beautiful and have already been extremely ecologically damaged, I do not understand how these landscapes could possibly be improved. I believe it would be best to let this region exist undisturbed so old growth forests may return and all the wildlife can return to this amazing region. Second, how would these projects affect all the recreational value, this region has value to many families across the state and country. Finally, how could these projects further contribute to climate change? One of the best solutions to stop further warming of the planet is to allow forests to be where they are and continue growing.

Sincerely,
Concerned Young Georgia Citizen
