Comments: I'm just a girl who loves hiking, hunting, fishing, camping and just being outdoors and in the woods.

If the woods need help so all the critters who are supposed to be there will come back and thrive along with the plant life that needs thinning just like "weeding a garden" then I don't need to read scientific data, although I have.

This is a no brainer. Save our forests and every living thing in them. It's called conservation. And only true outdoors folk know what that entails.
