Comments: I fully support active forest management. The inactive management that has plagued our National Forest is a severe problem that leads to increased forest mortality, risk of wildfire, and loss of natural resources. Wildlife populations flourish with active forest management and changing of habitat. The monoculture of mature overstocked natural timber stands is detrimental to supporting the majority of wildlife species that depend on various forest types for food and cover. I fully support this project to improve the health of the forest and provide the necessary habitat for wildlife.
