Comments: As a resident near the Chattahoochee National Forest, I vehemently oppose this proposal which basically gives the Forest Service carte blanche to do whatever they please over the next several decades without the input from the public. There is no definitive plan, and the acreage involved is massive. We love our public lands and it is an outrage that this administration wants to strip the citizenry of its right to advocate for their protection in the face of never ending incursions. I am a hunter and a conservationist and live near National Forest because I love its beauty and wilderness. We will not abdicate our rights to influence decisions regarding this treasure. After all, the public lands belong to the citizenry, who pay for them and use them. Do not enact this proposal.
