

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/11/2020 1:05:09 AM

First name: Marty

Last name: Harrison

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Our Forest throughout the world are facing a terrible death.

Mankind has destruction on its mind and not thinking of the future of our planet or the future of our children. All around me here in northwest Georgia land owners are selling the trees off their land and scalping mother earth. In so many places the plants and trees have never and will never grow back.

The animals that LIVED in those woods were forced into the open and into neighborhoods where they have had to forage for food and shelter. Most have ended up dead on the road or killed by humans or domestic animals or just starved or killed by the elements. This is just a very small part of what happens when our forest are taken.

What about our AIR? It's been proven that more tornados form in wide open places, where they can gain power. Again this is just a trickle compared to the problems we are facing in the large areas.

Whole forest wiped out , Mother Earth left to be scorched. Vegetation can't survive. Wild life cleared. We might not be here tomorrow but what about those that will ??????