This would be the best thing for our FS land in 30 years. It would provide browse for wildlife, fawning cover and edge habitat. Grouse are almost lost at this point  but there are a few deer in places. There's no diversity within our forests here, it's been neglected for the last 30 or so years and some species have really suffered because of it, it's a shame that USFS has let groups like forest watch tell them what to do, these folks are clueless about wildlife.
