Comments: I recently read in the local newspaper that you are putting forth more proposals for more logging in our forests. This would mean more road construction also, both of which would pollute our environment, contribute toward more animals being forced toward extinction. I would entreat you to establish more roadless habitat for forests and animals. Our forests are the lungs of our world and we badly need them. Quit logging them and find alternative means of constructing buildings. If we are to survive as a species we need to protect our planet from deforestation and promote more nationally protected wilderness.
