Comments: Unique wild areas like the Great Burn require our utmost efforts to protect them as our global society plunges ahead into a future with increasing threats to all living systems. Our responsibility to future inhabitants is to pass along our planet in a condition offering quality of life for all living things. The success of that legacy is increasingly doubtful as world leaders favor short term economic gain over controlling fossil fuel emissions. The least we can do as responsible earth inhabitants is to recognize the unique place wild systems have in our planet's biological heritage and protect them.
