Comments: I am writing in support of Sunlight Mountain Resort's proposal to expand skiing on their east ridge. It seems to be a reasonable proposal for expansion and development. Sunlight Mountain provides a unique skiing experience in central Colorado, providing downhill skiing, uphill ascent, and snowshoeing, cross-country, and back-country skiing on their permitted area. But Sunlight does this affordably, unlike the extreme high-end resorts all around that cater to the rich and the extremely rich. This is people's skiing, and that's good for the sport, good for the community, good for the public, and good for Colorado. Sunlight Mountain will need to expand and offer varied and challenging terrain to continue attracting skiers; denying them that opportunity might eventually cripple their business and decrease their viability. Sunlight is a gem that does not exploit the forest, their customers, or their community. They should be allowed this expansion without excessive delay, without excessive review, and without excessive red tape. Thank you.
