Comments: I've lived in Arizona my entire life and I love our state, but why destroy one of the most beautiful things we have here? The horses are not hurting anyone and should be allowed to roam free. Cattle ranchers are destroying our planet, if anything humans should focus on that. There isn't a reason that has been given to get rid of these horses. I'm assuming they will be sent to a slaughter house and someone will profit from that. Like usual human beings have to murder and control everything, how dare we let these amazing creatures roam. Humans are the ones using up all the natural resources, these horses are just trying to exist and we are selfish for trying to take that away from them.
