Comments: To Whom it may concern,

I ask you to please considering saving all of these horses. These horses are innocent victims of circumstance. It is horrible and cruel to consider the killing of these poor creatures. Furthermore, culling back a designated area that is terribly small, while there are actually thousands of acres in that area, is cruel. Culling back the herd to between 50-104 animals is not only cruel, but puts the herd in jeopardy due to a then potential limited breeding DNA, which can lead to possible health issues. This whole situation just makes me sick. Please consider letting these animals be. If they can no longer stay at this location, at least consider putting them up for possible rescue. Thank you for your consideration in this difficult issue.
