Comments: I would like to say to whoever is responsible for this decision about the innocent wild horses:

Is it not enough that the human infestation of this world has done nothing but deplete resources, exterminate, and destroy as much as we possibly can?

Humans are reproducing at an alarming rate, our overpopulation of this world will eventually lead to major issues, and perhaps that is where the real focus should be. How much can we expect this planet to handle? We only have this one.

Future generations will suffer because of choices to not protect what is precious, and I hope that the public records of the names of those responsible will be remembered in history as being personally accountable for the future that is left for them, a broken damaged world, all because of the almighty buck, that is what this is all about after all, greed, corruption, selfishness, lack of morals and zero compassion.

Please do not allow this to happen, these animals deserve a chance to live their lives.

Sooner or later these types of decisions will take us past the point of no return, there will be no way to repair the damage done, and that is when these choices will make our own survival questionable if not impossible.

Please do not give in to special interests, or political pressures, and do the right thing for our world, protect our wildlife and our environment, it is all that we have, we only get one.
