Comments: It is clear that your real goal is to get rid of all the horses, in favor of people who pay money to bring in cattle, which certainly don't belong there. That is your bottom line, and money always speaks louder, doesn't it?

If money is the only measure that determines what is 'right,' we are all doomed, Especially since climate change is real, and replacing wildlife with cattle is a major contributor.

Maybe we do deserve to die out, if money is all that matters.
