Comments: There is very little land set aside for the wild horses to roam. The small amount of acreage provided is obviously going to create problems for the wild horses. I see them as part of our western heritage and would love to see wild horses roam free on our public lands and be recognized as part of the natural beauty that attracts people to the National Forest. It is a shame that the Forest Supervisor obviously opposes this. The small time frame for the public to comment on this issue looks like the governing officials aren't really interested in hearing what we have to say about how they should manage our National Forests. Links to this discussion are not well advertised so that the public is aware of how to comment and share how they feel. The officials seemingly want to pass their own desires quickly without discussion from citizens.
